Race Day 2010

Now is the best time of the year. The temperature is rising, flowers are blooming and campus is abuzz with excitement. Cyclists are working on their tan lines, putting in their final tough workouts and anxiously await race day to come.

Over the past five years, BKB has become a well known Little 5 team. They have raced well and finished in the top 10 every year. Every year they have bridged back to the main pack after wrecks or mechanical failures. This year they hope to avoid those mishaps and get BKB's first victory.

With a growing fan base and small but solid group of alumni riders, this year will be very exciting to watch. BKB and the rest of the field will attempt to put an end to the Cutters' 3 year winning streak. Most teams hope this year's race will be less windy and faster than previous years, so less teams will stay on the lead lap.

BKB will wear a solid silver jersey along with black/silver Bell Volt helmets. They will wear Capo Forma bibs with a black crotch and Capo written down the legs.

Picture of the helmet and bibs BKB will wear on race day 2010.

There are a few teams to watch on race day:

1. Black Key Bulls-3 returning riders, most hungry, capable team, great sprinter
2. Cutters-4 returning riders, won last 3 years, great coaching, great sprinter
3. Grey Goats-4 returning riders, 2 mountain bikers provides advantage with bike handling
4. Phi Kappa Psi-4 returning riders, performed well in series events, always place well
5. Phi Gamma Delta-3 returning riders, had won a race every decade until last year, lots of young talent, great sprinter
6. Phi Delta Theta-4 returning riders, army of riders to choose from, performed well in series events, won white jersey
7. Delta Upsilon-4 returners, always place well, excellent triathlete
8. Sigma Chi-3 returning riders, no big-namers, stuck with lead pack last year, dark horse
